Through the Mill, a new play by Ray Rackham chronicling the life of Judy Garland, will get its world premiere in a three-week season at London Theatre Workshop from Tuesday 1 December - Saturday 19 December.

Press are invited to review Thursday 3 December at 8pm

Taking place during three significant and distinct moments in Judy Garland's career, Through the Mill charts her rise from teenager to MGM movie star, from "has-been" to concert hall darling and her short-lived career as a television personality.

On film, on stage or in people's living rooms every Sunday evening, Garland was, and continues to be, one of the biggest stars of Hollywood's golden age. As conflicted as she was celebrated, Through the Mill gives the audience an opportunity to go beyond the rainbow and witness the life of a woman destined for greatness, one who is as loved today as she was when she made her way along the yellow brick road.

Featuring a hit list of Garland greatest standards performed live by a cast of 12, Through the Mill will delight Garland aficionados and audiences new to her extensive catalogue of work.

Cast to be announced.

Through the Mill is written by Ray Rackham, Artistic Director of London Theatre Workshop and librettist lyricist of last year's smash Christmas musical, Apartment 40C; which originated in the December 2014 slot at LTW and later transferred to St James Studio in April 2014

Through the Mill is directed by Max Reynolds (Ushers: The Front of House Musical at the Arts Theatre) and produced by London Theatre Workshop, whose recent productions include the critically acclaimed, sell out musicals Parade and Apartment 40C.

Produced by Skye Crawford for London Theatre Workshop.
